The reason lies between the tide of general prosperity, and the fact that new opportunities for the profitable employment of capital have been created by $1. Louis' financial institutions. The city has never been in debt, and when times are good prosperity showers a flood of gold upon her."

In accounting for the stability of local prosperity the Record calls attention to the enormous business this city is doing in shoes and hardware, furniture, dry goods and clothing, beer, manufactured products of all varieties, many of which find a greater market here than elsewhere in America. "And there is a thrifty class of small merchants, hundreds of small fortunes, and some that are not so small. Knickerbockers to Be Substituted for Long Trousers and the Khaki Dress Elaborated Upon.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, June 15.-The United States Army is to have a new uniform. Radical changes are to be made in both service and dress uniforms of officers and men of all branches of the service. Some time ago Secretary of War Root apcointed a special commission of army officers to investigate and report on the ques-tion of improvement in the uniforms now worn. This commission has held a number of hearings, examined the uniforms of the armies of other countries and will report to Becretary Root recommending a number of changes.

Becretary Root recommending a number of changes.

These recommendations will include the adoption of khaki as the service uniform for all arms, but full-length trousers for privates are to be abolished. The new service uniform proposed will have in place of full-length trousers knickerbockers and either leggings or a wrapping for the legs similar to that used in the British Army. Long trousers are to be retained in the direst uniform, but the helmet will be abolished and a cap with a visor substituted. The brown slouch hat with the service uniform will be retained.

The proposed changes in the uniform of officers are all in the direction of simplicity. The present long, heavy sword is to be abolished in favor of a short and light-weight weapon similar to that now used in the Italian Army. In full-dress uniform officers will wear a cap with visor which is to be modeled after a pattern used in the Prussian regiments of the German Army. The knapsack is to be abolished and in its place there will be a canvas hag that will be surpended by straps over both shoulders. The bag will hang about the middle of the back.

General Miyles appeared before the commission and suggested a uniform for the cavalry branch of the service. His suggestion was ignored, as nearly all the recommendations of this distinguished officer have been.

have been.

It is expected that Secretary Root will approve the proposed changes and unless it is found necessary to have Congress pass on the matter the army will appear in the new uniforms before the end of the year. So far as is known at present it will not be necessary to refer the matter to Congress.
